

POSTER

A prosection of the superficial muscles of mastication for use in medical teaching.

George Whittaker

The superficial muscles of mastication are symmetrical tissues which are pivotal to jaw movement, and are responsible for the purposes of everyday functions such as chewing and talking. The aim of this dissection was to demonstrate these muscles for use in medical teaching.